

Please join us for an author event with Dr. Gary E. Machlis, author of Sustainability for the Forgotten

Thursday, April 24, 2025 at 6:00 pm
Free and open to the public

University of Utah Press, 262 pages, 2024

Sustainability for the Forgotten is an incendiary book that confronts the history, policies, and practices of sustainability. It questions the usefulness of current sustainability approaches for the poorest of the poor, the chronic underclass, victims of natural disasters, refugees, the oppressed, and asks, how can we do better? With examples that range from the coffeelands of El Salvador to the coal country of American Appalachia, sustainability is examined with a critical eye and with an emphasis on insuring that the forgotten are heard. The result is a provocative statement on the future of sustainability and a call to action that is ultimately hopeful.

Machlis is University Professor of Environmental Sustainability at Clemson University. His author's website is <https://gemachlis.com>

The Pendleton Bookshop, 125 East Queen Street, Pendleton, SC 29670