BBQ + Book Talk at Pendleton Station
with the Pendleton Bookshop
Thursday, June 25th at 6 pm

Join us for a night of BBQ, books and beer at Pendleton Station with the Pendleton Bookshop. Celebrate Father's Day this year by treating the Dad in your life to a special evening out at Pendleton Station (220 E. Main Street, Pendleton, SC 29670). Nathan Spainhour, author of The South Carolina BBQ Project (from Good Printed Things), will talk about barbecue and design, barbecue and history, barbecue and tradition, and more!

Nathan Spainhour is a designer and artist whose work explores visual culture, storytelling, and place. He is the founder of Spainhour Creative Work, an award-winning studio focused on brand and creative strategy, and teaches design at the university level. A longtime fan of architecture, maps, and analog design practices like screenprinting, he lives in the Upstate of South Carolina with his wife, Jess, and two very persuasive small dogs.

Send Dad out for the night or invite someone along. All are welcome! Barbecue, beer and books will be available for purchase at the event. Register via the events page on the bookshop website (www.pendletonbookshop.com).
